

17 July 2007

Climate Control

You're into saving the planet, but when it comes to going green, you'd rather live in Whole Foods than a tree.

There are worse things than being a champagne environmentalist.

Especially now that you have Climatecars at your disposal. The new carbon-neutral London taxi service has a fleet of Toyota Prius petro-electric cars to provide karmic rides around town. Taking cash and account bookings, it costs less than many rival cab firms, which is surprising considering how remarkably posh it is.

All vehicles have sat-nav systems, leather seats, mini fridges stocked with complimentary Belu water, glossy magazines and newspapers. Drivers are smartly dressed and will always open the door for you. Cyclists who lose the will to pedal may order a Climatecar to drive them — and their bikes — home.

Next time you need a ride, perhaps you should consider Climatecars. It's so much greener than booking a whopping petrol-guzzling family space bus for one measly mortal.

Swampy would be proud.

Climatecars (020 8968 0440 or climatecars.com).

TODAY IN EVERYWHERE
Poke with Stick

What concerns you most about your hair?

- 1. Condition/shine
- 2. Color longevity
- 3. Scalp issues

REDKEN
5TH AVENUE NYC

