Climate-conscious taxis

You recycle, you buy only renewable energy, you don't own a car . . . but you still need a taxi every now and then.

To assuage your guilt, Climate Cars, a London cab company, might be worth considering. It uses only Toyota Prius hybrids and offsets all emissions generated. "We have actually grown in the recession, which we are pleased about," said Nicko Williamson, managing director. More details at climatecars.com.
