LA LA Land

In an effort to start offsetting some of the carbon from my trip to LA, I decided to try Climate Cars, a new eco-friendly taxi service. Every one of their cars is a Toyota Prius, and they even serve Belu – eco-friendly water. The service was splendid and most definitely helped ease some of my guilt for having to take a flight. While at the airport, I got talking to a young girl, shop assistant Mari Enriques. Mari is so environmentally conscious that she goes around all the shops at Heathrow collecting plastic, paper and glass – and recycles them herself! This is not part of her job description, but rather her way of making a difference. Bravo, Mari!
